Friday, February 23. 1705.

From the Leid. & Amst. Gaz. dated Feb. 26. & 27.

Naples, February 3.

THE 1st Instant we felt the Earth heave, which put us into a great Fright, but did no Damage: However daily publick Prayers and other Devotions have been renew'd upon it. A few days ago a Courier arriv'd here from Madrid, to press the raising of Men and Money in this Kingdom against the next Campaign. The Duke de Laurenzano died 3 days ago. An Inhabitant of this City having lately kill'd a Frenchman in a Quarrel that happen'd between them, and afterwards taking Sanctuary in a Church, our Viceroy caus'd him to be fetch'd out and hang'd up immediately, without any Regard to the Ecclesiastical Immunities.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Feb. 26.

Rome, Feb. 7. The 1st of this Month the Pope went to the Church of St. Mary Major, where he heard the Litanies that were solemnly sung in Thanks to the blessed Virgin for preserving this City during the great Earthquake that happen'd in the Year 1703. The next day being the Feast of the Purification of the Virgin, the Pope accompanied by the Sacred College, held a publick Chappel in the Vatican; where Mass was celebrated by Cardinal Carpegna, and Te Deum was begun by his Holiness. Yesterday the Queen Dowager of Poland went to the Vatican with a numerous Retinue, and being admitted to an Audience of the Pope, had a Conference with him of three hours long, and took a solemn Leave of him: After which her Gentlemen had the Honour to kiss his Foot. This Evening her Baggage will set out from hence for Gratz in Stiria; her Majesty will follow it in a few days; But for her Ease, proposes to travel but five Leagues a day. The Pretence of this Journey, is to be nearer to the Court of Vienna, to sollicit the Emperor to use his Interest with King Augustus of Poland, to procure the Liberty of the two Princes her Sons who continue Prisoners in the Castle of Leipsich, and also to intercede with the Emperor that the Elector of Bavaria her Son-in-Law may not be put under the Ban of the Empire: But many are of Opinion she has some secret Design in this Journey.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Feb. 28.

Rome, Feb. 7. The Queen Dowager of Poland's Journey to Stiria is put off for some days, as well because of the Rains and Snows that have fallen lately, as because she waits for Letters from Venice before she sets out from hence. Cardinal Barbarini is appointed by her Majesty to take Care of her Affairs here during her Absence, and his Eminency has already caus'd an Inventory to be made of all the Jewels and other Things of great Value, which her Majesty has deposited in a certain Nunnery. The Duke of Mirandola arriv'd here yesterday, and will very shortly proceed from hence to Naples.

From the Leid. Gaz. dated Feb. 26.

Vienna, Feb. 14. They write from Arath in the Upper Hungary, that a Detachment of Imperialists and Ratsians having pass'd the River Kerez which was frozen over, attack'd a Party of Malecontents and defeated them, killing many of them on the Place, taking 50 Prisoners among them a Collonel, and 1000 Head of Cattle. The Malecontents on their side burnt 4 Villages yesterday near Gaunexdorf; and the Inhabitants of the open Country came running hither in great Numbers, upon Count Caroli's having sent a Letter to the Capuchins of Schwachet, to acquaint them that he should suddenly pass to this side of the Danube, with a Body of 6000 Malecontents; and would put all to Fire and Sword, not sparing even Persons in Holy Orders. 'Tis talk'd the Emperor will order 6000 Men more from Bavaria, to march directly through Bohemia to Moravia. Just now a Report is spread, that General Heister having met near Ozopernel a Body of Malecontents, attack'd them so vigorously that he kill'd about 800 of them on the Spot, and put the rest to Flight; of which we expect a Confirmation with the Particulars.

From the Amst. Gaz. & Cour. dated Feb. 27 & 28.

Vienna, Feb. 14. Some Troops of Horse being arriv'd in the Suburbs of this City, in order to march to Italy, receiv'd a Counter-order on Friday last, because of the new Excursions made by the Malecontents, who have ravag'd the Country and burnt some Villages within three Leagues of this Place, but retir'd with their usual Expedition as soon as they found the said Troops were advancing to seek them. The King of the Romans has sent Letters to several Princes and States of the Empire, to exhort them to exert Efforts necessary for carrying on the War vigorously the ensuing Campaign. The Forrage that was sent last from hence to the Imperial Horse in Hungary, will serve them but for three Weeks. Prince Ragotski has warn'd the Inhabitants of the Country for six Leagues round Buda and Pest, to remove with their Effects, being determin'd to lay waste so much of the Country as we have mention'd, to deprive the Garrisons of Buda and Pest of the Subsistence they usually furnish themselves with from the said Country. The 12th an Express was sent from hence to Dresden, whence he is to proceed to Berlin: As soon as the News of the Death of the Queen of Prussia was brought hither, all the Diversions of the Carnaval were forbidden; and the Court is already gone into Mourning. The Bavarian Deputies that are come hither, make great Complaints of the Disorders committed by the Troops quarter'd in their Country.
